JOIN US - AND MAKE AN IMPACT

Go to Newcastle, London, Manchester, Sheffield, Birmingham, Nottingham, Newcastle, or Blackpool... people like tramways and light metro systems.

They smarten up our cities, create jobs, and are good for the environment.

So what's the problem? Why is the UK so slow in building them when they are springing up all across the rest of the world in large numbers?

The Light Rapid Transit Forum (LRTF) can play its part in moving us forward a lot faster. It represents private sector organisations that design, build, supply and operate trams and light rail schemes - and it needs your support.

Despite the tough economic climate, the Government acknowledges their value.

One of the greatest challenges is to simply make them affordable.

The LRTF is determined to secure wider support from Government and other policymakers. It works closely with UKTram, Pteg (Passenger Transport Executive Group), and the All-Party Parliamentary Light Rail Group. In the months ahead, we will be working hard to streamline our collective efforts.

Enjoy the Conference, and do not hesitate to approach LRTF officers with your views and questions.

We must be measured by results, and how hard we punch, so please join us. Complete the form overleaf, and we'll be in touch.

Very best wishes

COLIN WALTON
President, Light Rapid Transit Forum
